WESTMINSTER COLLEGE

subject to change

Change. It's a prospect inundated in our society socially and politically. Here at Westminster, we aren't immune from the change that has rippled throughout our country--Each one of us contributed to social change when we voted in November, and each one of us witnessed the change that took place. Here on campus, we witnessed our own changes. We, too, welcomed a new leader, a new president who promises a change of his own. We saw a change in McGill Library; at Burry stadium. We saw changes in faculty and staff. We saw changes in the seasons--as we saw the leaves on the ground freeze with snow and the snow melt into green grass, we saw our seniors leave, and welcomed a new freshman class of over 450. Enrolling at Westminster signals a time for spiritual and academic growth, a time for self-improvement, and a time for change...

fresh start '08

This year, Westminster College welcomed 450 new freshmen to its campus, shattering enrollment records of previous years. 450 new students meant 450 more circulating Titan Cards, 450 more transcripts to calculate, and foremost—450 more “fresh starts” at a new campus, surrounded by new people and scenery. The Fresh Start program, coordinated by campus staff and hosted by upperclass students of all walks of campus life, welcomed the new students the weekend of August 22-24, 2008. Fresh Start students attended various programs about campus life, bonded through teamwork excersizes, discussed “The Girls,” the summer reading assignment, and had the opportunity to meet and greet with Dr. Richard Dorman, who also experienced his own “fresh start” as the new president of Westminster College.

On Friday, September 5, students boarded a ship of Pittsburgh's famous Gateway Clipper Fleet for a semi-formal dance sponsored by the Campus Programming Council. Aboard the 500-passenger Clipper, students enjoyed food, a pay bar, music, and dancing with friends. The number one attraction in Pittsburgh, the Gateway Clipper fleet travels along the Allegheny River with the beautiful Pittsburgh skyline as a festive backdrop. "I love the Gateway Clipper cruise," said sophomore Alexis Wojcicehowski, who attended the event the previous year as well. "My favorite part was dancing to 'Thriller' with all my friends!" Wojcicehowski is certain that the Gateway Clipper dance will be an annual tradition for her and her close friends. "It's always an awesome time!"

Westminster College held its Homecoming Festivities the weekend of October 18, 2008. Facing a bitter wind chill, students, faculty, staff, and hundreds of WC alumni gathered to watch the Titans defeat Bethany College 46-43 and Independent Candidate Aimee Spicuzza wear her homecoming crown. Student organizations dressed their floats festively, sporting elephants, cats in hats, "Whos," and "Things" in accordance with Homecoming's "One Fish, Two Fish, Blue Fish, White Fish" theme. The Homecoming activities commenced following the dedication of the updated McGill Library and concluded with a Titan win and a satisfied Westminster College community.

The crowd cheers at halftime for the homecoming candidates. Many brought their SGA donated "bam-bams" to the game for extra noise making.

Ben O'Keefe, Theta Chi's Homecoming candidate, is all smiles after being named Homecoming King.

Homecoming festivities at Westminster encompass a yearly tradition that brings alumni from all over the country back to their alma mater. As those alumni visit their respective Greek tents, attend tours led by SAA and SWAT, and admire the newly renovated McGill Library, current students engage in festivities, savoring the Westminster spirit before they graduate and become alumni themselves.

Homecoming 2008 was unique, and maybe just a little strange--onlookers cheered as Elephants, Whos, Loraxes, and Cats in Hats adorned floats that rolled along the parade route, and yet, despite the unusual sights, the highlights of the weekend were typical: reuniting with old friends, talking casually with professors and their families, and unifying together as one Westminster community.

Ashley Stebor seems worried as she sits atop ZTA's float, whose theme was "Oh the Places You'll Go".

Titan Marching Band trumpeter Diana Peet prepares to take the field before the Halftime show.

Homecoming candidates Jimmy Joe Petrolla, Alison Gersginski, and Ben O'Keefe share a laugh during the Newlywed Game.

Busy sophomores Alison Paden and Megan Sherry relax and have a bite to eat during the Homecoming festivities.

Kevin Kaprally, dressed as Cindy Loo Hoo, shows some affection for onlookers as he rides atop the Alpha Sigs float during the Homecoming Parade.

Phi Mu's "Horton Hears a Who" interpretation was awarded overall best float.

Once Upon a Mattress

From November 12-16, 2008, Theatre Westminster presented "Once Upon a Mattress" in Beeghly Theatre. Under the direction of Dr. Scott Mackenzie, Westminster associate professor of theater, talented students performed in Mary Rodgers and Marshall Barer's classic musical comedy adapted from Hans Christian Andersen's "The Princess and the Pea." Set in a fictional kingdom ruled by Queen Aggravaine (Rose Hassell) and the Silent King Sextimus (Dave Lynch), "Once Upon a Mattress" tells the story of a wayward prince searching for his princess, only to find her in the unrefined Princess Winifred "Fred" the Woebegone (Sonia Firster). "The show was great," said sophomore Mike Disotell. "Once again, theater Westminster proved its ability to put on a very fine stage production."

Princess Winifred, played by Sonia Firster, sits atop a stack of mattresses, unknowingly proving herself worthy of marriage into the begrudging Queen Aggravaine's royal family.

Christmas Vespers

On December 7, 2008, the Westminster College campus community gathered in a decorated Orr Auditorium to celebrate Christmas Vespers with family, friends, and colleagues. With its theme of "The Twelve Days of Christmas," Christmas Vespers allotted the stage for various campus performing groups, including the Full Choir, Flute Choir, Handbell Choir, and Percussion Ensemble. Along with the students and staff who read corresponding excerpts from scripture, the Reverend Jim Mohr delivered a sermon that conveyed messages of hope, peace, charity, and reverence. Another year, another service-- and another time of holiday joy and campus togetherness.

spring theater Getting Out

This year Theatre Westminster presented the play "Getting Out". It ran from February 19-22 in Beeghly Theater and was written by Marsha Norman and directed by Cynthia Snodgrass Jones. The play centered on a young woman who got out of prison and then was forced to create a new life for herself. However, her past experiences still creep up on her and make it hard for her to move on with the rest of her life. From time to time she has flashbacks of painful past experiences, and is constantly going through psychological changes. Over time she begins to transform from a hate-filled child named Arlie to the present rehabilitated woman named Arlene. To show the two sides of this complex woman, there are often times two actresses that appear on stage simultaneously. Through the course of the play, Arlene must make the decision on whether to revert back to her old roots or to stay strong and continue leading an honest life, no matter how hard that might be.

Theatre Westminster presented their final production of the year, Pride and Prejudice, April 30-May 3 in Beeghly Theatre. Based on the classic novel of the same name by Jane Austen, the play is an adaptation for the stage by Christina Calvit. Under the direction of Westminster associate professor of Theatre Dr. Scott Mackenzie, the production starred numerous Westminster students in the roles of the pert Elizabeth Bennett and the memorable Mr. Darcy. "I really enjoyed the production," said sophomore Heather Schroeder. "It was really fun to watch my peers perform a story I knew so well and read so many times." Patrons also had the opportunity to attend a lecture by Westminster associate professor of English Dr. Deborah Mitchell and students Amanda Miller and Shannon Richter entitled "Universal Acknowledgement: The Enduring Popularity of Jane Austen" in Mueller Theatre prior to the Sunday matinee. "It was definitely one of my favorite Westminster productions," said Schroeder. "I can't wait to see what they'll perform next year."

With faculty adviser Gina Sharbaugh, Co-Presidents of Dance Theatre Krista Sekilik and Shayna Marti worked to plan this year's performance, which was made up of 21 different dance routines. Each performer in Dance Theatre had the opportunity to dance in a maximum of three different routines. Of the thirty aspirants who auditioned in the fall semester for a choreographer position, those selected worked from October to the pivotal stage performance over Lil' Sibs Weekend. Dance Theatre Seniors also danced in several duets throughout the show as a "final bow" before graduating in May. "I'm so glad I got involved with Dance Theatre," said Senior Jim Jowers. "It was an amazing experience."

Relay for Life

On Saturday, April 4, the campus community came together for the annual Relay For Life at Burry Stadium. Although a very brisk and rainy April morning, nothing could chill the spirits of those participating in the event, whether walking the survivor's lap, walking for a team, or simply supporting friends and classmates. "Relay For Life means a lot to me and my family. Two of my grandparents had lung cancer and I hope the cure for the disease comes soon," said Lurene McDonald, a junior who walked with Kappa Delta's team. Many student organizations sponsored teams for the event, including other Greek organizations, several of which held a fundraiser for additional donations. "It is always great to see the campus come together to take a stand against cancer and raise money for research," McDonald said. "Relay is a fun way to hang out with your friends and raise money for a cure."

Many people participated in Relay and helped to make it a success.

Alyssa Hanna, Tim Wolf, and Darnelle Clark walk a "few" laps. Darnelle walked for over twelve hours.

SGA's annual Volleyrock event was held the weekend of May 1-2. Donning navy blue t-shirts that read "Volley Like A Rock Star," students had the opportunity to enjoy performances by You the Symphony, JD Eicher and the Goodnights, and Cartel, attend an outdoor screening of "Ten Things I Hate About You," and enjoy a buffet of wings provided by Quaker Steak and Lube throughout the duration of the weekend. Over 100 teams with clever names participated in the volleyball games in an attempt to win the grand prize, $500. "Volleyrock was especially good this year," said sophomore Karli Champ. "The weather was beautiful, the food was great, and the activities were really fun." Those students who participated received a t-shirt, a water bottle, a Westminster hand towel, sunglasses, and lunch/dinner the day of the event, courtesy of SGA. "The event just keeps getting bigger and better every year," Champ said. "Volleyrock is probably the best weekend of the entire semester."

President Dorman, members of the Board of Trustees, friends, family, esteemed guests, and graduates of the Class of 2009, it is an absolute honor to be speaking to you all today at this special event. Four years ago, had you told me that I would experience even a very small portion of all that I have undergone at Westminster, I would have never believed you even for a second. This institution has truly changed my life in more ways than I could have ever dreamt of. Westminster has shown me who I am today and has illustrated the type of person that I will continue to strive to be every day of my life.

Because of this, when I sat down to write this speech, I had a million and one things that I wanted to say in order to share my love of this college with you all. Then I thought about the true focus of commencement and its objective to honor the hard work, dedication, and remarkable accomplishments of the graduating class. So I thought, who better to hear from than the graduates themselves.

At the end of March, I e-mailed approximately 20 seniors and told them that I was working on a project and would really value their input. To anyone that I e-mailed... surprise, this was my project! I requested that they reply using 3 words or less in expressing what Westminster means to them. As I read their responses, I was ecstatic in realizing that I could have never expressed Westminster any more perfectly. So today, I base my message to you not only what Westminster has done for me, but for so many of you, as well. The first response I received is one of my favorites:

Westminster is... life-changing. We arrive here barely high school graduates and we leave with a college degree, unbelievable experiences, and the strength of character to go out and conquer the world. We learn about ourselves along the way and prepare to lay our path for all that we will encounter in the years to come.

Westminster is... a place for smiles. While I may be more than a little biased, I am convinced that Westminster students are some of the absolute kindest people that I have ever come upon. Anyone that has ever stepped foot on this campus can vouch for this statement through the many friendly smiles, waves, and conversations constantly found simply walking from one place to another.

Westminster is... unforgettable memories and friendships. I am really not even sure how to put this one into words for an explanation. I have met people at Westminster that I could never forget even if I tried harder than I have ever tried at anything before. The relationships that I have made with students, professors, and faculty have shaped my experiences here and I can never thank them enough for their friendships and the memories made along the way that I will cherish for the rest of my life.

Westminster is... irreplaceable. Many of you know this story, but before I went on my campus tour at Westminster, I had my mind set on attending another institution and did not even want to come to my tour here. However, the second that I stepped foot on campus, I knew that Westminster was uniquely special and that no other college could ever come close in comparison. Four years later, I truly cannot imagine myself anywhere but right here, for Westminster truly can never be replaced.

Westminster... feels like home. I never expected that in coming to Westminster that not only would I gain a wealth of knowledge, but that I would also gain a second family and home along the way. Graduating or not, I hate to tell you, but you will not be able to keep me away for long. For so many of us, Westminster has become a place that we will always think of as a home. This college encompasses all that I think of when I think of home through loved ones, undeniable and constant support, and a foundation for which to live your life.

Westminster is... four fantastic years. I remember after my first semester here, a good family friend whose daughter I had grown up with sent us a Christmas card. In it, she wrote, just think... 1 semester down and only 7 more to go. I remember thinking at those 7 semesters were an eternity away and that I still had plenty of time to take advantage of all that Westminster had to offer. This past Christmas, I told my mom... just think, 7 semesters down, and 1 more to go. These four years have passed in the blink of an eye. Now I can understand the merit behind the common belief that your college years are the best years of your life, because it would be almost impossible to top my experiences here.

Westminster is... committed. Never could I have imagined a group of people so committed to the success of the students on this campus. The professors, administrators, and faculty here, in my opinion, are world class. At one of the Board meetings, we were discussing what truly sets Westminster apart. I remember telling the chair of the committee after the meeting that I believed that the unique qualities of Westminster lay in the fact that the faculty here refuse to take a back seat in regards to our education. They push us to levels that we may think are impossible, only to realize that we have succeeded and that we are capable of more than we could have ever thought possible. This college is entirely and genuinely committed to our education and success and because of it, we sit here today moments away from accepting our diplomas.

While Westminster means something different to every single one of us, I think it may be more than safe to say that our time at Westminster is truly invaluable. Today is a very bittersweet day for all of us as we end this chapter in our lives only to use what we have gained here in order to begin writing the next chapter of our journey.

To the professors, administrators, faculty, and alumni of Westminster College, I thank you for your unselfish dedication to our learning and success. To the friends and family that have supported us in our journey, I cannot thank you enough for your constant support, encouragement, and your confidence in all of us.

To my fellow graduates, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for making these four years the best of my life. I have laughed with you, cried with you, and made memories with you that I will always cherish. As we graduate today, remember that we leave not only with a college degree, life-changing experiences, and lifelong friends, but also with moments in time that will never be forgotten. Graduates of the Class of 2009, congratulations on all your accomplishments and I wish you all nothing but the best in the future. I challenge you to go out and seize all the opportunities that the world presents... for the world is yours for the taking and to me,

revenge of the nerds geek week '08

Westminster College's 6th annual Geek Week was held on October 20-24, 2008 in Hoyt Science Center. Geek Week, a week-long competition intended to test students' knowledge of the sciences, is a collaboration between the five science departments (Mathematics and Computer Science, Physics, Biology, Chemistry, and Psychology). Each department hosted a competition for the twelve teams comprised of 3-6 students, and at the end of the week, the team "Big Oh Snap" was declared the "Geekiest Group on Campus." Dr. Pete Smith, Westminster Assistant Professor of Chemistry, was also awarded the "Geekiest Professor" award.

Honors Convocation

Westminster held its annual spring Honors Convocation on Saturday, April 25 in Orr Auditorium. Attended by members of the Westminster and New Wilmington communities, the Honors Convocation honored those students who excel academically, from all-campus scholarships to departmental awards. Those students who made the Dean's list and were admitted into honor societies like Lambda Sigma, Mortar Board, and Omicron Delta Kappa were also recognized at the Convocation for their academic achievements and extra-curricular involvement. Throughout the entire weekend, those students who received research and travel funding from the Drinko Center presented their posters and papers throughout McKelvey, showcasing the immense talent and academic dedication within the Westminster student body.

Study Abroad

The study abroad program at Westminster is like no other. Here, students have experienced firsthand what life is really like in countries such as England, Spain and Ireland. There is no better way to expand your worldviews while at the same time getting experiences and developing skills that could not be provided through simple textbook reading and a typical classroom environment. Through taking part in the study abroad program students were able to see how other cultures live and prosper in our ever-changing world. Most importantly though, they were able to learn more about themselves in that one semester abroad than most students learn about themselves in their entire four years of college. It is a growing experience that will forever change the lives of those that chose to take part in this amazing opportunity.

Study Abroad

“When I studied abroad, my knowledge on the world broadened a little; by living and understanding the beauty and the culture of another nation, I became also just ever so slightly more knowledgeable of America. I feel a slight affinity to the culture, having made friends from France and other nations during my stay there. I long to study abroad and see the world again.”

Greek Week

Westminster's annual Greek Week was held the week of April 20-25. All ten fraternities and sororities competed throughout the week in events like Swimming, Tug-of-War, Rock Climbing, Eating, and Kickball to claim the coveted overall victory for their Greek organization. Members of Greek organizations on campus wear their fraternity or sorority's colors throughout the week until Saturday evening, when they wear special costumes and uniforms for Sing n' Swing. This year's Sing n' Swing theme was "letters," with each Greek organization choosing a letter and dancing to songs performed by an artist whose name begins with that particular letter. "Greek Week was awesome this year," said sophomore Kappa Delta member Amanda Murphy. "It's always a really exciting week." After Sing n' Swing, which ended with victories by Alpha Gamma Delta and Alpha Sigma Phi, fraternities and sororities announced their Brother/Sister of the Year and Kevin Shields and Bridget Roth were named Greek God and Goddess. "I can't wait until next year," Murphy said. "Something new seems to happen every Greek Week!"

JD Eicher & the Goodnights

This spring, Westminster said “goodnight” to JD Eicher and the Goodnights, a staple of the campus entertainment scene, when front man Eicher and the other members of the band earned their college degrees. JD Eicher, a native of Canfield, Ohio, and his bandmates including drummer Ryan Kirk, bass player Jordan Graham, and electric violinist Louis Simone have been together for two years and average about two campus performances per semester. Eicher, who has been performing for four years, often performs as a solo act as well. Although the campus community will miss the regular performances by the Goodnights, the band recorded a full-length solo album during the summer and plans to visit Westminster as campus alumni.

President Richard

Like most of the first-year students in 2009, I, too, was embarking on a new adventure at Westminster. First years in any new role are always exciting, and so it was for me as I not only learned about a new organization but its people, hopes, and dreams. What I found was a caring community dedicated to excellence in education, and a focus on student growth that is the hallmark of the College. Among the greatest joys my wife and I experienced during the year were the many opportunities to get to know the Westminster students. I thank each of you for helping to make our first year at Westminster so remarkable.

President Dorman

Change. As members of the Westminster community, we've all witnessed it. We've all been a part of it. For over 150 years, Westminster has inspired countless changes—Westminster students have impacted numerous lives and environments with their well-rounded education and sense of academic, social, and spiritual balance. No matter what changes Westminster witnesses over the next 150 years, its mission will never change, and neither will its quality, its spirit, or its indomitable sense of community. Our student body changes every year, but our commitment--never.

From the Editor...

When the theme for this book was being decided, Subject to Change seemed appropriate with all of the changes going on in our nation and on Westminster's campus. We could not have picked a more perfect theme. This has definitely been the year for changes, even for the Argo. We experienced changes in staff members, changes in design ideas, and changes in meeting our deadlines (for the better!) It has been a wonderful year, and I am so thankful to all of my staff members. Kate and Ali, thank you so much for all of your hard work on the layouts. The book looks wonderful and you girls did an awesome job! Kelly, thank you for all of your hard work getting the copy written. You have a magnificent way with words. Coleen, thank you so much for all of your beautiful photos and hard work in the time you were here! Amanda and James, I cannot say thank you enough for all of your photos. I know it is very stressful trying to cover everything, but you both excelled. Joe, thank you for keeping all of the business stuff organized. You did a great job! To all of the photography and copy staff members, thank you for all of your hard work. We couldn't do it without you!

There are many other people to whom I must express my extreme gratitude. Connie McGinnis, thank you so much for your advice and constant support. Thank you to David Bollman of Herff Jones, who always has the answers when we need help, to Jen Poltrack and everyone at DaVor Photography, Deans Edman and Hawthorne, everyone in the Student Affairs office, the Student Publications Board, and President Doritiani. A big thank you goes out to everyone who we demanded photos, quotes, and any other information from.
